Arqueologia

Arqueologia

Call for Papers

We are pleased to announce the re-launch of the journal Arqueologia, and that we are currently accepting submissions for its 2019 issue. The journal Arqueologia is a peer-reviewed, open access journal which focuses primarily on archaeological research conducted in the Americas or by researchers based at universities in the Americas. The journal does not focus on any specific time period.

Arqueologia publishes several main types of articles, including research articles, short reports, and summary-synthesis articles, and special category articles such as editorials, interviews, and reviews of books and events. The journal also publishes special issues comprised of monographs or instructional manuals. At the moment, we are accepting articles in Portuguese, Spanish, English, and French.

For article types and general guidelines, see the Section Policies page (http://journals.kvasirpublishing.com/arq/about/editorialPolicies#sectionPolicies) and the Instructions, Templates, and Downloads page (http://journals.kvasirpublishing.com/arq/issue/view/3).

Arqueologia is published online by Kvasir Publishing. All articles are licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0: General License. The journal and all articles are freely available to the general public in the spirit of open scholarship. There are no fees to download articles, nor are there any fees to submit, review or publish articles. As an electronic publication, we encourage authors to take advantage of the wide variety of media available in this format in addition to those available in the traditional paper format.

To receive future updates from the journal, please register on the journal's website (http://journals.kvasirpublishing.com/arq/).

Otis Crandell

Editor-in-Chief
Arqueologia